“ I am very saddened to hear of Morris' passing. He was one of my closest high school friends and we did contact each other throughout life, upon occasion. He shared pictures of his beautiful family with me (and with mutual friends) several times over the years. I shall always remember him as that handsome, wild boy who grew into a devoted and loving family man, deeply committed to his faith.

My heart goes out to his family in this sad, sad time. I know you will all miss him very much, but that you will also always be thankful to have had this good man for your very own.

God bless.

“ Dear Cheryl and family,
I have known Morris since high school days. Over 40 years ago. Morris and my sister Ana, were best of buds. I remember Morris in those years as a very handsome guy, quick wit, funny and lit up any room he walked into. It wasn't till later years that I truly got to know the real Morris. We had a lot of things in common and that bond brought us together. We shared many conversations, I called them "our marathon" chats, laughed a lot, cried at times and supported each other. I always would hang up and felt empowered in some way. I pray that I helped ease his journey a little. Last time we spoke, I think it was early July, he told me he was having a very difficult time overcoming the new bumps along the way. Morris was a fighter and there was no doubt in my mind that he'd beat it this time too. We was so happy and excited about his new grandson and was hoping to start treatment soon. I told him I loved him and to stay strong and FIGHT hard. He was so happy for me that I had beat my odds, said he loved me back and we said 'bye. There was no doubt in my mind that we'd chat again, the whole time hoping it would be at Seagrove Beach with all our loved ones. God must have needed a spunky, good looking angel sooner than we thought.

We'll miss him, be thankful for crossing paths in this life and with God's will and guidance.....see each other again. What a celebration that will be! No more pain, no more suffering, only joy and bright, beautiful light. As we stand on the shore on this end waving good 'bye, there is a huge celebration on the other shore to welcome you home. RIP sweet friend, look over your Cheryl and family and friends from above and know that you made a difference on everyone you came in contact with.

God bless you Cheryl and may you find comfort in your many memories you made along the way. He lives in your heart now. Look for the signs cause you know that rascal will show you many. :-)
