“ David and I were the two youngest of those siblings listed above. He was tough on me but he was also good to me. He taught me a lot over the years and was always on my six. There's never a better friend that a little sister could ask for than her big brother! We drove each other crazy but he knew I loved him and he meant the world to me, so much that I named my youngest son after him. My heart is broken
