“ I worked with Evelyn at GE for a number of years. She was a sweet, caring, wonderful woman and she loved people and doing for others. She always had a smile on her face. When I would see her at a store or somewhere outside of work she always asked about the family and how things were going. Even after she retired she was just as friendly and caring.

“ Evelyn was a good friend and excellent nurse. We worked together for many years at the hospital. For the last couple of years, we, with other friends, met once a month at different local restaurants for lunch and friendly catching up on events in our lives. February was the last time she was able to join us, and I cherish that time with her even more now that she won't be joining us anymore. Evelyn, you WILL be missed!!

“ A few months ago, I found my cousin , Evelyn Guy, through FB. Our fathers were brothers, and were estranged from each other for most of their lives. Evelyn and I talked on the phone, and I was so happy to 'meet' her-- to hear her gentle, Southern accent as she told me about our fathers, and the Warren family. She laughed at stories I told her about the stubborn Warrens. But then, about a month later, Evelyn had a stroke. She lived in Alabama, & Norman & I were near there to visit other family. We drove out to see Evelyn in the hospital, and to meet her daughter and granddaughters. Although she couldn't speak very much, she held my hand with such strength and when I would say we should let her rest, and leave her, she would shake her head "No". It was a very emotional meeting-- she died this morning, and I will miss her. I am thankful for the great gift of having met her and being with her those few hours last month.
