“ I met Earl as a young bride of 18 when we were stationed in Oklahoma City in 1959. He loved bird hunting then, and he loved his family and Betty and two children at the time - Connie and Gary. Earl and my husband, Ray Struble, were lifelong pals, had birthdates the same, and kept in touch all these years. Betty was a mentor to me and being slightly older than me, I admired pretty much everything she did. We were both wives of airmen who made little, and there was never enough money at the end of the month so we swapped what we had---eggs, pork and beans and the like. I shall always remember Earl and will miss giving him my annual birthday call. He has joined Betty now, his true love, and may they both rest in peace. And to those left behind, you have some pretty beautiful memories to carry you through. Much love - Pat Struble English
