“ I remember Howard as a young child during our weekly visits to see Horace & Pearlie Mae. Mr. & Mrs. Childers were hard working, God fearing farmers that were in touch with the land. I remember Howard and James used to pass watermelons as if they were footballs-this made an impression on me. Like both sides of our family, we all served in the US military. I remember Howard wanted to be a highway patrolman upon discharge but was put under serious family pressure not to do so-as such he pursued other avenues. Unlike many of the time period, he developed a working knowledge of the stock market, most unusual. Nina and I pray daily for the progression of his and Carolyn's soul in the afterlife. Both were tolerant and non-judgmental of others which we greatly appreciated.
