“ If I could've spoken- I would've said how you were so stubborn at times and always insisted everyone else was taken of first. You were incredibly caring and took all the broken people around you under your wing.. me included. You were the first one to speak up if something/someone was wrong. You stood up for the people you truly loved. When you loved- you loved hard. Those people are so lucky to have been loved by you.

Jada, you were so quick to invite me into your home so I had a roof to sleep under. You treated me like I was your own. I'll never forget our late night talks and I will always regret not being there. Rest peacefully, I hope you're having a reunion with your parents.
