“ I remember how excited I always felt when Aunt Judy was coming to visit. There was something electric about those moments—Mom and Judy would laugh for hours, their joy filling the house and lifting everyone around them.

One time, I had a business conference in New Orleans. Aunt Judy met me at the airport, and that evening became one of my favorite memories. She took me all around the city—sharing stories, pointing out hidden gems, and making sure I ate well. It was one of those nights that felt effortless and special, just like her.

I always admired her strength and adventurous spirit exploring the world with cousin Becky. She did it with courage, curiosity, and a sense of fun that was contagious. She lived fully—and inspired everyone around her to do the same.

Aunt Judy was deeply loved by her family, and her loss leaves an ache that words can hardly express. We'll miss her laughter, her beautiful smile, and the warmth she brought into every room. With much love to all, Stephanie
