“ I'm his grandson, Samuel Wyatt Brantley.
I never really got to know him because he passed when I was only six, saddest part is all I remember was him making fun of me, and always bugging me, at the time I just thought he was trying to be annoying.
He wasn't, and it was not until I was nine till I realized he wasn't trying to mean.
I never got to know him, and never will.
Here I am six years later as of now I'm wearing his old cardigan.

“ I'm so sad to hear he's past. I lived and grew up across the road from his family. I haven't seen him in person since we moved in the back 40 that a joined his family's land my mothers family owned .I got one favorte memory.that stands out he was I'll say in his late teens around 19 I guess and a bunch of people got in my pawpaw's cow field behind my house in the rain and mud and we had the best mud and cow pattie fight there ever was. I wasnt to old then but I'll never forget it. He was always sweet and nice. And I loved miss Mary and mr Bosie his great parents. .
