“ I always loved visits from Uncle Oscar and Aunt Jean, they were always happy and up beat and had plenty of stories to tell about their travels. Being my Granny's baby brother, I loved the way he could light up her eyes too.

“ Oscar was always so incredibly caring towards Jean. He would go above and beyond to take care of her. My husband and I aim to show that love to each other.

My last memory of him is amusing. Apparently a family of armadillos had taken up residence under his shed. I laughed as he related the midnight flashlight chase he and another neighbor had undertaken just a night or two before. He always made me feel better after a conversation with him than I had before. I will truly miss him. Debi Goodman
