“ I had to post this again I didn't know the video I posted would cut some of it off.

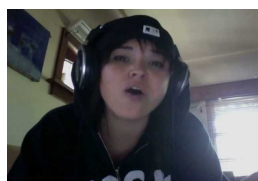

Oh my dearest friend my heart is so sad! yet so relieved that you are not in pain anymore. The emotions have a weird way of making you feel during such times like these. I miss you so much already although you have been with me in my mind all day. The day we met brought so much love and friendship into both our lives. I was 25 you were 35 your kids and you became part of my family. I have had the privileged of watching your love spread into this amazing family. two years ago you told me you favorite times were the Christmas party. we have shared so many things and I have cherish them all through the years. I am so thankful I got to see you at Christmas I knew how sad you were that you were in the hospital and would not get to go to the party. but you never let anyone see ,you were so brave and accepting of all of it. I will miss you my friend but I know you will watch over us all.

“ I have so many wonderful memories of,my sister Joan, I don't know where to begin. We girls, Joan, Teresa, Stacey and myself would go out to eat sometimes and we would laugh so much and have such a good time. Joan would get so tickled because I would embarrass Teresa or Stacey and she would laugh so hard at me. Joan always understood me and I loved to spend time with her. I remember once spending a week with her years ago right after my first divorce. She always made me feel welcome. One time I needed some help really DESPERATELY and she was there for me. I will never forget the way she walked into a room, almost regally,like a Queen. She was always dressed immaculately. So Beautiful. She always turned heads and people noticed her. I admired her and looked up to her. People loved her because she was so friendly and sweet. Ever since she found out she was so sick, never once did I hear her complain. Not one time. I loved her so and I will miss her so much. After Mom died she was kind of like The Family Matriarch, things will never be the same without my Beautiful Sister. We laughed together, cried together, found comfort in one another. She was truly One of the Best people I have known in my 54 years. I cherish the times I had with her and I look forward to Walking o. Streets of Gold in Heaven with her one Day. Rest now Forever Beautiful Lady. I love you Forever.
