“ I am very sorry to hear of your loss. The Bible calls death an enemy and that it will be swallowed up forever. (1 Corinthians 15:54). It also promises a resurrection. (John 5:28-29). May these passages, along with the love and support of each other, as well as precious memories, sustain you all during the days ahead.

“ Philip and I go back over 65 years when we entered NOA military high school together in New Orleans. Philip and Leigh dated during that time and were each other's first love and remained so until Leigh passed away. We went on to Tulane, graduated but there our lives separated when Philip then followed his second life long love, the U S Air Force. Over the years we kept in touch. Richard, Jeff, and Bryan did get to know my children, Shannon and Charlotte. When we first met Philip was mature beyond his years, had a strong character yet always was kind and gentle. I admired him greatly. My wife Robi joins me in sending Richard, Jeff, Bryan, Philip's widow Babara, and their extended families our sympathy, thoughts and affection.

“ Philip was a very special and much loved part of our lives for the last 50+ years. Leigh, Philip, Mary, and I shared so many great memories -the birth of our children, marriages, schools, trips, and retirements throughout our military service. Phil and I were together in Vietnam - Leigh and Mary supported our families on the home front. We just had such good times together. And we can honestly say we had few if any serious altercations in our relationship. We miss our dear friend and buddy. May his soul rest in peace 'til we meet again in our heavenly home. active

“ Today Marge and I lost a friend we have known for 44 years. Philip was a dedicated, sincere, loyal, thoughtful military officer who could handle any endeavor. He was so very proud of his family. We will miss our Thursday night dinners together as well as eating together on many other occasions.
