“ My best memories are of growing up with Ron and all my Keck cousins. We lived wild and free playing on the Keck farm. The barn was a never ending adventure. There were usually kittens to play with. We played in the creek, the pig pond, the chicken house, the garden and the fields. I never remember being told 'no' that we could not do something. I don't remember ever asking either. Ron, being the oldest, was probably given some responsibility to keep his sisters and younger girl cousins out of trouble. His did a good job with that as his did throughout his life keeping his country and his family safe. A life well lived! Cousin Joan (Elda's daughter).
