“ Fountain of Love

I hear you cried a fountain Because I went away I hear that you reach out for me every single day I know that there's not many songs that you can bear to hear that do not make you feel so sad and want me to be near please don't cry a fountain because you think I'm dead I'm here beside you every day I'm here inside your head I'm here with every breath you take and every night when you're asleep into your room I gently creep and place a kiss on your forehead oh no my Love I am not dead for there is no such thing you know and I am here to prove it so When my body grew so tired and my heart was beating slow and when my legs refused to move I knew it was my time to go Please don't cry a fountain I'm here with you forever though my body's gone to dust I will leave you never ! thought about you when I read this. I just had to share. You are truly missed..words can't even describe.

“ Thomas, Hey. Don't know how to say the way I feel so I will just make it breif because I'm sure you know. I miss you & the few times we got to chill. I only knew you a brief time, then turns out kind of known you for many years never put it together. The last few months you had here I really loved being your friend. You have one of the biggest hearts of everyone I know. And it showed. Just in your smile and actions. I am so sorry about what happened. I wish you wouldn't have been home that day and just was some where else. But I guess I won't stop thinking about the what if's. Every single hour of each day that I am awake you are missed and thought about. I am so sorry to Thomas's family and for everything to happen the way it did. He was a awesome man. And he loved each of yall so much. I know you are watching over us because I feel you daily. Please be at peace now and keep watch over us. With a lot of Love.

“ My Dear Sweet Thomas, I will so very much miss your sweet smile, your well mannored personality. You were such an amazing young man and who ever could not see that was just totally blind. You have a big heart for life and enjoyed your friends. I am so sorry that things just wasn't the best at your home. I know for many years you and your Dad did not get along. The things you endured in your young life just wasn't right, but you are with God now and I know He loves you and He is hugging you and sheltering you with His wings. Never more to hurt or to feel unloved. Jenna and her family will miss you. I give thanks to the good Lord that He allowed you to be apart of our lives and that we got to share some laughs together. Now you rest in peace and help me watch over Jenna. Cause she has the hardest time with this happening to you. We love you and we will miss you greatly!
