“ My mother, Gayle, was unique to say the least! She was super intelligent, read several books every week of her life, kept up with our entire family's schedules, appointments, important events, etc. She was truly remarkable! She was my best friend, my biggest fan, and my co-parent raising my sons with me. She always kept up with their school events, their grades, their haircuts, their interests and loved my sons unconditionally! I could not have asked for a better co-parent than her!! My boys miss her very very much and I'm beyond lost without her. I know she would want me to go on and keep going for the boys which is much easier said than done. She fought so hard to stay alive despite all the opposition during her illness. The day before she took her last breath, I was holding her hand and she kept looking up at the ceiling to the right and then shaking her head "no" as if she was telling them she wanted more time on earth. I've never seen anyone fight so hard before. She was not at peace when she left us. She didn't want to leave so soon. She mouthed the words "I love you too" to me and I'll never forget how sad she looked. I love you Mama! I'll do my best to carry the torch in your absence.
